Appendix A - Riverstone Code of Conduct

Purpose

This Code of Conduct establishes a standard by which we conduct ourselves towards others and perform our professional duties on behalf of the Riverstone Group (Riverstone). Its aim is to help us to aspire to the highest standards of ethical conduct. The Code must be read in conjunction with the explanatory statement for the Code of Conduct which provides further detail regarding the required standards of conduct.

It is the responsibility of each individual to protect and support the company, its employees and its mission as a manufacturing community.

Ethics and integrity are the responsibility of each individual. Therefore, every member of this company, and any other persons who are acting on behalf of the Riverstone, is responsible for ethical conduct consistent with this Code, including Riverstone's policies and objectives. Top management, Heads of Department, and others in supervisory positions must assume responsibility and accountability for ensuring that their conduct, and the operations for areas which they supervise, complies with this Code. The Riverstone Code of Conduct is a statement of our belief in ethical, legal and professional behavior in all dealings within and outside of Riverstone.

This Code of Conduct is not exhaustive, as the company recognizes that we cannot list all behaviors as expected of customers, employees and other stakeholders. If an unsatisfactory behavior or action is not specifically listed, that does not mean it will not be in breach of this Code. All employees and persons who are acting on our behalf are expected to uphold exemplary standards of conduct in their role. Because they are in positions of trust and confidence, they must also have high standards in their personal lives. We expect that every employees and persons who are acting on our behalf will understand and adhere to this Code.

Broad language is used in this Code. The guides for each principle should help explain more about what behavior is expected. The Code should be interpreted in the context of individual circumstance. 'Stakeholders' may refer to an individual adult; a customer, an employee; a supplier or service providers, government agencies, public authorities and regulatory bodies, society or local community; an organization; or part of an organization.

This Code may be updated by the Board from time to time.

Application of this Code

The Code of Conduct applies and mandated to all employees and persons who are acting on our behalf of Riverstone Group (Riverstone) while acting in their official capacity.

There are a number of ways that you can seek advice and support, including through any of the following, but not limited to:

- your superior
- someone else in your management structure
- Account & Admin contact person

Do not let any concerns go unresolved. If you report apparent misconduct honestly, and in good faith, you will be supported by the management of Riverstone. Employees should report any infringements of the Code as soon as possible.

The Values

Responsible behavior is fundamental to how we carrying out our duties. It is not just what we do; it is how we do it that is vitally important to both the reputation and success of Riverstone.

Riverstone values are Innovative, Creative and Progress and these values guide all our actions and decisions. Our behavior is what people see and experience when they interact with us. That is why it is so important that we apply these values to everything that we do.

Title: Social Responsibility Management System Manual – Appendix A	Rev. Date: 01/04/20	SRMS-001-Appendix A

Our culture depends on all of us living our shared values by delivering on our commitments, creating leading-edge solutions and taking the initiative.

As individuals, collectively as teams and as a world-class manufacturer, we will always:

- foster a culture of ethical behavior
- take personal responsibility for implementing the standards in this Code and comply with all Riverstone policies and processes
- comply with applicable laws and regulations and contract requirements as a minimum. In the many instances where we set our own higher standards, we will apply these first
- respect the human rights of our employees in the workplace and the communities in which we operate
- seek guidance where we are unsure of the appropriate course of action

Riverstone commits that every employee and persons who are acting on our behalf will:

- act with integrity, serving as role models for the high standards of conduct expected throughout Riverstone
- promote ethical conduct, both within and outside Riverstone in which we operate
- provide training and other resources so that every employee and persons who are acting on our behalf are equipped to deal with ethical issues
- make sure this Code is provided for explaining to and understood by every employee and persons who are acting on our behalf, are managed and supervised.
- foster an open work environment in which employees are encouraged to raise questions or concerns without fear of retaliation or retribution
- take action to address concerns of ethical misconduct

Riverstone is committed to this code of conduct and encourages all employees and persons who are acting on our behalf to seek advice or raise their concerns about business conduct-related issues. We will not tolerate any adverse actions against any one for raising an issue or concern in good faith. By adverse action we include where employees and persons who are acting on our behalf is discharged, demoted, suspended, threatened, harassed, excluded or deliberately marginalized.

Any employees and persons who are acting on our behalf found to have retaliated against another for raising an issue or concern in good faith will face disciplinary action.
